The object is the development of certain veins of argentiferous minerals, located in Churchill County, Nevada, in what is known as the Mountain Wells District. The value of these veins has been carefully examined and inquired into - a geologist having been sent from this city for that specific purpose. From his report, which is herewith appended, it will be seen that the claims have been wisely selected and offer every inducement as a basis for mining operations. At the time of the examination of the property it was the intention of those interested to style the Company, the Grey Eagle Silver Mining, but further inquiry developing the fact that the name had been appropriated, it was deemed advisable to change the same, which was accordingly done, and which will account for...
