In the World, approximately four times as many men as women stutter, encompassing 70 million people Worldwide, or about 1 of the World s population. The impact of stuttering on a person s functioning and emotional state can be severe. This may include fears of having to enunciate specific vowels or consonants, fears of being caught stuttering in Social situations, self-imposed isolation, anxiety, stress, shame, being a possible target of bullying (especially in children). In the United States, School-age children with a speech disorder are often placed in special education programs. Children who struggle to learn to talk often experience persistent communication difficulties in addition to Academic struggles More than 700,000 of the students served in the Public Schools Special Education Programs in the 2000-2001 School year were categorized as having a speech or language impediment. When I was a small boy, I asked my mother why did I talk the way I did? She said,...
