Accommodation.--On the upper floors of the building there are a lecture hall for 150 students, a small electrical laboratory, and a large and well-lighted drawing office, and on the ground floor the engineering laboratory, boiler house, battery room, and a small class room attached to the laboratory. Equipment.--The laboratory contains a 50-ton Wicksteed testing machine, a set of machine tools, an experimental compound steam engine capable of working up to 50 horse-power and arranged for every kind of experimental testing, dynamometer brakes, a ten-horse gas engine, apparatus for hydraulic experiments, dynamos, a small electro-motor, extensometers, autographic recording apparatus, and several illustrative models. Laboratory Work.--The experimental work of the laboratory is carried on concurrently with the lecture work, so as to afford practical illustration of the subject-matter of study, and is accompanied by the simultaneous graphic work of the drawing office. The laboratory is not used by the student as a model workshop, but for systematic instruction and experiment in the properties of materials, in the working and efficiency of motive power machines, and in such kinds of experimental research as will best aid him in his scientific study of engineering or add to his knowledge of practical facts. Physical Department.--Staff.--The staff consists of Professor J....
